Computer security is what everyone should learn about even though most people think it is not important it is. Because if you have an email that you owe debts which you have to pay by the next day and your computer crashed you could easily fix it because you know how to use it. Or if you thought the government was calling you for your credit card number and you gave it to them you would know first to security scan them to see if the are or aren't hackers or viruses. You've come to the right site, this site will teach you everything you want to know about and then you could pass it down to you're kids to understand and be head of class in I. C. T!
